Dear Friends and Colleagues:

We would like to inform you that we have received information from the local airline BAR, ALA Costa Rica:

The Minister of Public Works and Transportation, Mauricio Batalla, informed ALA Costa Rica that they have instructed Karla Montero, President of RECOPE, to proceed with the transition from JET A1 to JET A. RECOPE reported that the current contract for the purchase and import of JET A1 expires in November this year 2024. Therefore, the last purchase of JET A1 will be in November and after that, RECOPE will proceed to buy and import JET A. It is estimated that by the end of the year JET A will be available to be sold in the main airports of the country, when all stocks of JETA A1 run out.

ALTA will have a meeting in the coming weeks with ALA Costa Rica and RECOPE planned on the week of June 17th, at their request, to define the setting of the price and the details of the transition.

This achievement is a direct result of our joint advocacy efforts, emphasizing the importance of our continued commitment to the industry in Latin America and the Caribbean.

Kind regards,

Jaime Escobar
