Brief Description of the Organization

TAAG Angola Airlines, officially named TAAG - Linhas Aéreas de Angola, is the state-owned national airline of Angola, headquartered in Luanda. It operates both domestic and international flights from its hub at LAD Airport. The airline serves as a crucial link connecting Angola to key destinations across Africa, Europe, and South America, playing a key role in promoting regional connectivity and economic ties. TAAG's international routes include strategic flights to Brazil in South America, which support significant economic, cultural, and familial exchanges between the continents.

Currently, its fleet consists of (3) Boeing 777-200, (5) Boeing 777-300, (6) Dash-8 Q400, (8) 737 and a new fleet of (15) A220 and (4) Boeing 787 to arrive. This diverse fleet enables the company to offer transportation solutions for both passengers and cargo, standing out for its ability to customize services according to the specific needs of its customers.
